Project Description/Justification:

Team Alaska was established in 1968 by the state as a non-profit, statewide organization to organize, select, uniform, and transport Alaska's young athletes to the biennial Arctic Winter Games. Besides more than 20 sporting events such as snowshoeing and cross-county skiing, the Arctic Winter Games include a very important cultural component. Traditional dances and music are performed during the games, and there are many opportunities for interaction among the teams.

For many young Alaskans this international event is a pivotal time in their lives. Over the years, many young Team Alaska athletes have expressed how important the experience of the games has been in their lives. It is the goal of Arctic Winter Games Team Alaska to keep the registration fee paid by participants at a level reachable by all young Alaskans.

In addition to support from the State of Alaska, funds are raised from the private sector through corporate sponsorships to help defray the cost to the athletes.
