Benefits if Project is Funded

We are educating students for a future full of jobs that will utilize technology that does not yet exist. Even at the elementary level we need to be preparing students for future jobs. In the early years, that preparation is done through exposure to technology. Teachers today use computers, interactive boards, clickers, slates, cameras. Research has repeatedly demonstrated that students learn better when they are fully engaged and that multisensory, hands-on learning is the best way to engage them. Interactive boards facilitate multisensory learning whether it is a collaboration exercise for math problem solving or a Google Earth tour of the Amazon. Current Technology like the boards allow teachers a way to bring the rest of the world right into the classroom. A teacher can create engaging lessons that focus on one tasks such as a matching activity where students use either fingers or a pen to match items. Teachers may integrate multiple items into a lesson plan such as websites, photos, and music that students can interact with, respond to verbally or even write comments of the board itself. This technology makes the one computer classroom a workable instructional model.
