Project Description/Justification:

Walkways and bikeways are subject to the same environmental stresses as the State's roadways. In general, this project is intended to address the problems of aging pavements, eroding and deteriorating bases, failing drainage, fading or missing signage and striping, broken, missing or substandard lighting, infringing vegetation and damage caused by trees, and to correct deficiencies in older designs.

This is a statewide program to address safety hazards and deficiencies on approximately 400 miles of bikeways and a couple thousand miles of sidewalks throughout the state. We currently have a project in the design phase in Northern Region to perform spot repairs on pathways along Farmer's Loop Road, Ballaine Road and Chena Pump Road in Fairbanks.

Census data consistently show that Alaska has the highest rate in the nation of adults who walk to work. In 2008, over 7% of adult Alaskans walked to work compared to the national average of less than 3%. These figures do not capture the numbers of children who walk to school or people who walk to the bus stop while shopping or for recreation. Nationally, it's estimated that 9% of all trips are walking trips.

A recent national report noted that 17 pedestrians were killed in traffic crashes in Alaska in 2007 and 2008, nearly 12% of all traffic deaths in the state.

This project contributes to the Department's Mission by reducing injuries, fatalities and property damage and by improving the mobility of people and goods.
