Brief Summary and Statement of Need:

The State of Alaska receives State Homeland Security grants from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. The grants provide for programs across the state for homeland security planning, equipment, and emergency training exercises. In support of the department's mission, these programs address issues of life, safety, and protection of infrastructure, and are necessary for effective citizen preparedness, local first response, and statewide emergency preparedness.

Project Description/Justification:

State Homeland Security grants are annually awarded to the department from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. Congress annually determines the funding amounts, allocation methods, and grant requirements.

Grants to Alaska typically have an 80 percent pass-through requirement. Pass-through funds go to communities statewide for infrastructure installation and maintenance for emergency preparedness and response in the event of a catastrophe or emergency. Funding at the state level provides for crisis management, emergency notifications, infrastructure analysis, project mitigation, policy development, and grant administration.
