State of Alaska FY2021 Governor's Operating Budget

Department of Health and Social Services
Probation Services
Component Budget Summary

Component: Probation Services

Contribution to Department's Mission

The Probation Services component encompasses the division's juvenile probation services, which provides intake and supervision services for delinquent juveniles, and the Division Director's Office, which provides statewide agency administrative support and management oversight for juvenile probation services and the juvenile facility components. Services are provided in a manner consistent with the division's mission to: hold juveniles accountable for their behavior, promote the safety and restoration of victims and communities, and assist offenders and their families in developing skills to prevent crime.

There are four regional Probation Offices: Anchorage Regional Probation Office (ARPO), Northern Region Probation Office (NRO), Southcentral Region Probation Office (SCRO), and Southeast Region Probation Office (SERO). Each region is managed by a Juvenile Probation Officer IV. These units are the first responders to delinquency referrals once they leave the law enforcement agencies, providing services seven days a week and on-call during evenings in order to provide services according to youth, parent, and court needs. All regional Probation Offices utilize the Restorative Justice Model, which considers the needs of the victim, community and offender. The goal is to restore the harm done by offenders to victims and communities and to subsequently build competency in offenders so they can be productive members of those communities.

Each regional Probation Office is active in community outreach and partnership with schools, residential treatment facilities, non-profit agencies, partner state agencies, law enforcement, and the courts. Juvenile Probation Officers frequently provide training and presentations to community members on current juvenile justice issues, which serves as a way to inform and educate the community about services and partnership opportunities, and to deter youth from delinquent behaviors.

- Anchorage Region Probation serves around 40 percent of youth receiving probation services, and is broken into four units. Two of the units address specialized needs, one for Foster Care youth and one for youth in transition from secure treatment. All other youth are split across the remaining two units.
- Northern Region Probation serves the most remote and geographically the largest region in the state, covering nearly two thirds of the state. Northern Region Probation serves Fairbanks, the North Star Borough, Yukon Kuskokwim Delta district, Norton Sound district, and Northwest Arctic Borough. Many of the areas served are primarily Alaska Native communities, and the Division of Juvenile Justice Rural Specialist works closely with Juvenile Probation Officers in the region to ensure cultural competency and respect.
- Southcentral Region Probation serves the following five districts: Aleutians, Dillingham, Kenai, Kodiak, Mat-Su, and Valdez. This is one of the fastest growing regions in the state, and currently contains about 27 percent of the state's total population.
- Southeast Region Probation serves the Alaska Panhandle, with three district offices in: Juneau, Ketchikan, and Sitka. Though this region is smaller than some of the others, many of the communities served are remote with limited access and includes several semi-permanent logging camps.

Core Services

• Intake/Community Collaboration/Court Services/Case Management Supervision

Major Component Accomplishments in 2019

 As part of a statewide effort, all probation offices have focused on building relationships with rural communities and Tribes. This has included collaboration with community partners, regular Juvenile Probation Officer presence in rural communities, and efforts to increase the number of tribal diversion agreements with rural communities.

- Dethel Juvenile Probation Officers have traveled to various communities in the Yukon-Kuskokwim Delta and have met with village council presidents, city and tribal leaders, youth service workers, school personnel and village public safety officers. The goal is for Juvenile Probation Officers to have more of a presence and engage in community policing efforts so they can work collaboratively to successfully keep youth in the community.
- o In the past, Southeast Region Probation and the Tlingit and Haida tribe have had limited interaction. However, there have recently been steps taken to establish a working relationship between Juneau probation and Tlingit and Haida. The Tlingit and Haida staff attended a tour of the Johnson Youth Center and key staff from both agencies are working together to establish a partnership. Efforts include identifying Division of Juvenile Justice clients who are tribal citizens and collaborating to connect them to services such as vocational training, educational supports, and potential housing for older clients. The Division of Juvenile Justice has requested a tribal navigator through Tlingit and Haida that will work with clients who are referred by Division of Juvenile Justice.
- The Anchorage Region Probation Office has worked closely with the Cook Inlet Tribal Council as well as Volunteers of America to increase the speed and utility of substance use assessments for out-of-custody and in custody youth. Volunteers of America sends staff on a regular basis to meet with Juvenile Probation Officers to coordinate on services being provided to youth in their out-patient and in-patient programs.
- During FY2019, 11 Rural Diversion Agreements were signed by tribal councils and courts throughout the state. This brings the total number of agreements with Division of Juvenile Justice to 21. During FY2019, 27 referrals were made by Juvenile Probation Officers to tribal councils and courts.
- Regional probation offices work to build and maintain interagency collaboration with local partners, non-profits, law enforcement, other state agencies, and local courts. Many communities conduct local, Multi-Disciplinary Team (MDT) meetings attended by members from Office of Children's Services, the Child Advocacy Center (CAC), law enforcement, Department of Law, school district staff, and mental health providers. Juvenile probation officers throughout the state attend and participate in the Multi-Disciplinary Team meetings to better evaluate and address Office of Children's Services Protective Services reports concerning cases of sexual abuse and of serious physical injury to a child where a juvenile has been identified as the perpetrator.
- In June, Kenai Probation hosted a community resource fair in partnership with other local community providers. The format of the event was to host a movie screening at the local school gym with resource tables set up in the lobby to agencies including Planned Parenthood, Public Health, the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Change for the Kenai, Young Lives, Tribal Circle, Hospice (Camp Mend a Heart), Kenai Wildlife Refuge, Bear Hugs (free backpacks for youth in transition), and Safe Kids (free bicycle helmets). Throughout the event, youth had access to health and social services resources and information, while enjoying a community event where they could engage with peers. This event was funded in part by Marijuana Tax Funds.
- Anchorage Probation has continued to work with the Anchorage Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate a series of high profile reports of harm in reference to sexual exploitation of female youth that were coming into detention. Several of the investigations have led to arrests and prosecution of adult perpetrators in the past year.
- During FY2019, 92 youth received Bring the Kids Home (BTKH) services. Of those, 15 travelled for family therapy, 31 received specialized sex offender services, and 26 received psychological evaluations. Services funded by Bring the Kids Home included: sex offender risk assessments, psychological evaluation, travel for family therapy, sex offender outpatient therapy, neuropsychological evaluation, home visits, mental health assessment, outpatient mental health treatment, forensic psychological evaluation, substance abuse assessment, essential clothing, substance abuse therapy, and health club memberships.

Key Component Challenges

- For the third year, the Anchorage office has seen increased referrals of female youth. These youth are coming in very young with high acuity mental health and substance abuse needs and/or serious offenses and a growing percentage have been trafficked. Caseloads have remained high in general, and the weekend staff have done an excellent job triaging cases coming in late at night.
- Staff recruitment in the rural offices continues to be a challenge making it difficult to have Juvenile Probation

- Officers presence in these communities.
- Anchorage continues to manage acutely mentally ill juveniles who struggle to find appropriate placement due to the juvenile's history of aggression. This has created issues maintaining the youth safely in detention as well as locating appropriate treatment in community, residential, or out-of-state settings. The large number of youths needing residential treatment has also resulted in an increase in Anchorage Juvenile Probation officers assisting with transports in and out of state for the Anchorage office and other jurisdictions.
- The Anchorage office is experiencing an uptick in homicides and violent crimes, several notably involving younger youth who may qualify for discretionary waiver. The Anchorage probation staff are working closely with the District Attorney's office, the Attorney General's office, and with victims' rights organizations this year to guide the referrals through the potentially long court process.

Significant Changes in Results to be Delivered in FY2021

- An immediate focus is on recruiting and hiring for vacant positions. The Northern Region currently has a very high vacancy rate and several other probation offices struggle with vacancy. Recruitment is a top priority.
- Statewide, probation offices will work to strengthen relationships with tribal villages. The goal is to increase Division of Juvenile Justice's presence in the rural villages and collaborate with tribal, village, and other interested entities to increase formal diversion options so that referrals can be handled with cultural relevance at a local level.
- Continue to improve Trauma Informed and Responsive services as well as Resiliency Development statewide.
- All probation offices are working to leverage the Marijuana Tax Funds to promote pro-social engagement activities, leadership development, and cultural activities for youth in contact with the Division of Juvenile Justice system. These funds allow for greater support of transitional activities, community collaboration, incentives, training, and many other activities aimed at reducing substance misuse and recidivism.

Providing mental health clinician oversight in the Division of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) Youth facilities is critical to ensure there are quality mental health services available to Alaskan youth involved in the juvenile justice system. Providing mental health services in DJJ facilities helps these youth learn the skills needed to live productive lives free of criminal behavior, thus providing public protection through reduced criminal activity. The funds are used to support a supervisory position which provides oversight to mental health clinicians (MHCs) in areas such as clinical service delivery, case consultation, development of training plans, and expertise related to confidentiality and ethical issues. In addition, this position works with DJJ senior management to further the integration and development of statewide behavioral health services within the 24/7 secure facilities as well as the probation services of DJJ.  The FY2021 Mental Health Trust Authority Authorized Receipt (MHTAAR) increment maintains the FY2020 momentum of effort to perform the aforementioned services.
