The Alaska Court System is seeking funding to procure a cloud-based digital evidence subscription that satisfies the access and security, functionality, system data exchange and storage, and customer support needs for managing and presenting evidence during trials. For criminal cases, the system would allow prosecutors and defense attorneys to manage, store, and share digital evidence, and display it during the trial from the solution's secure online database. The solution offers different functionalities to manage and present the evidence, including evidence displayed during both in-person and remote hearings and trials. While the system is needed during the pandemic when evidence needs to be presented on large screens to avoid passing around documents to individual jurors, the cybersecurity reasons are also compelling. On an ongoing basis, the court system needs such a digital evidence subscription to improve cybersecurity by eliminating the current risky insecure practice of attorneys and litigants bringing evidence on flash drives to plug into court system computers or sending emails with evidence attached.

With federal CARES funding, the Alaska Court System was able to purchase software subscription solutions to facilitate protection to the court system's network in an effort to prevent another cybersecurity attack like that which the court system suffered during the latter part of FY2021 and for the Online Dispute Resolution Project. A small portion of this request is to pay the cost for contractually negotiated CPI increases for CourtView applications; Zoom licenses to continue remote hearings and administrative meetings; and for the purchase of Qmatic, which is used to schedule appointments for members of the public desiring to limit their "in-person" time to come to the court system to conduct non-emergency business.

The Juneau Mental Health Court continues to be a critical component of the Trust's effort to promote success and better outcomes for beneficiaries involved with the criminal justice system. The court identifies the underlying reasons for an individual's contact with the criminal justice system, and then develops a court-ordered treatment plan addressing treatment needs which will be monitored by the court. By addressing the individual's underlying cause for contact with the criminal justice system, the risk of recidivism and associated criminal justice system's high costs decreases, thus providing increased public protection to Alaskans as well as improved management of state resources.

The number of Trust beneficiaries charged with a crime where an evaluation for legal competency has been ordered has risen from 2-4 cases/week to 6-12 cases/week. For Trust beneficiaries, this can result in spending increased amounts of time incarcerated while waiting for legal questions to be answered than if they had pled guilty and been sentenced from the outset. This can also lead to cases being dismissed before they can be prosecuted. This specialized court calendar in Anchorage tracks all Third Judicial District criminal cases where the court has ordered a legal competency evaluation and when appropriate, competency restoration.

The management of the Centralized Competency Calendar and the collection, tracking, and reporting of these cases and trends are critical to understanding the reasons for the delays in evaluation and restoration orders, as well as making recommendations for solutions.
