Brief Summary and Statement of Need:

The Kodiak Armory lacks designated space for housing soldiers or individuals responding to disasters. This project will convert existing storage into functional male and female bunk rooms. Currently, when personnel are housed in the armory, cots are placed in the drill hall. This is unacceptable due to the amount of activity occurring in the drill hall during an event. This project is crucial given the strategic importance of Kodiak, and also the need to house individuals responding to disasters. If not approved, the armory will continue to lack adequate sleeping quarters for either a military or disaster event.
